A friend claims that the phrase for free is incorrect. Should we only say at no cost instead?

If so, my analysis amounts to a rule in search of actual usageâ€”a prescription rather than a description. In any event, the impressive rise of "free of" against "free from" over the past 100 years suggests that the English-speaking world has become more receptive to using "free of" in place of "free from" during that period.

My company gives out free promotional items with the company name on it. Is this stuff called company swag or schwag? It seems that both come up as common usagesâ€”Google searching indicates that the

What is the opposite of free as in "free of charge" (when we speak about prices)? We can add not for negation, but I am looking for a single word.

I don't think there's any difference in meaning, although "free of charges" is much less common than "free of charge". Regarding your second question about context: given that English normally likes to adopt the shortest phrasing possible, the longer form "free of charge" can be used as a means of drawing attention to the lack of demand for payment and thus giving it greater emphasis. The same ...

3 There is no universal one-word replacement for -free. In the context of foods the appropriate portmanteau is gluten-containing -containing can be used universally, although there are other alternatives depending on specific food components (eg, sugared for sugar-free)

Following the last reasoning, wouldn't it be so that "at" , instead of "in" the weekend, is the Britishly recognized usage because it refers to an specific time in the week? Also, considering American reasoning, "on" is a reference to the fact that one would be considering a connection to the whole of time as in "during" the weekend?

If you are storing documents, however, you should choose either the mediumtext or longtext type. Could you please tell me what free-form data entry is? I know what data entry is per se - when data is fed into some kind of electronic system for processing - but I don't know how to understand the term free-form. Any thoughts? Thank you.

ROBLOX runs a no-sell policy that allows for players to earn "robu$tokens" or Robux. These tokens can be used to both purchase games, games from other users, and in-game items. It also serves as a way to gain currency for in-game purchases such as buying more slots, which helps players advance faster in the game.

ROBLOX has also been criticised for being very difficult to use and has many bugs within the site interface itself, problems which seem to go unresolved by the development team despite repeated complaints over a number of years. Although the website's interface is not difficult to use, it has become more complex over the years with features such as video editing with a dedicated program and large amounts of unnecessary superfluous features. Some of the features include: UIs for uploading and viewing custom models, importing music, applications, and sounds; importing sounds from WAV files; creating galleries; creating art sheets; creating an unlimited amount of variations for models by changing their scale and pose; adding animations to models (e.g. walking); creating global themes which change every time you go into a game or lobby; creating global music tracks in . ROBLOX's interface has also become extremely frustrating, with a lot of features being inaccessible and hidden because of the aforementioned complexity.

The site is very buggy due to the fact that user-created games are made in such a way that users can alter almost every aspect of any game. However, this has upsides too as users can fix most bugs themselves. They have often been taken down because they are "offensive". This is hard to believe since the site has been around for nearly 10 years. ROBLOX allows people to advertise on their site for just about any product they want and will let them earn money with it. However, this can be considered a bad thing in some cases, as advertisers can create "scams", such as charging people $5 dollars to create a game that can only be played by Admins or other users with unusual settings/roles.
