The criticism of TikTok from a lot of users is not surprising because this platform has been accused of violating its users' privacy in the past. A news article published by a German news outlet noted that "Tiktok is no longer just a fun app for teenagers, but rather an attack tool aimed at the private lives and personal data of young people. The American app is the latest in a series of digital platforms to become notorious for breaches of privacy." The article continued to state that "The cross-platform app just received 10 million at-risk accounts. But this data is second-hand, because Snapchat does not make clear whether the images that appear on its platform are real or not." One of the biggest concerns with TikTok is that it allows users to upload sensitive personal information such as videos which include images of people who may be minors. In addition, if a user's account gets hacked, there is no way for them to know if their account has been used against them in a manner which causes harm or embarrassment. In addition, the app does not make clear to its users which videos are older than 24 hours or indicate that their account has been hacked. A lot of people have also expressed concerns about the fact that they do not know what data is collected and what it is used for by the app and that their privacy could potentially be at risk if they do not understand how to use this app as well as what data is being collected from them.",

Most TikTok users will agree that this platform is less innovative and less engaging than it should be in order to maintain their attention. However, even if users were aware of all of these issues with this platform, it would still not be clear whether or not they contributed to the drop off in usage. The drop in usage is likely the result of a number of factors including bad press and competition from other video platforms such as YouTube, as well as issues with both the app's interface and the lack of interest of many users. Overall, this platform has not been able to build a reputation for being useful or popular enough to retain more than its niche number of users.",
