6 For free is an informal phrase used to mean "without cost or payment." These professionals were giving their time for free. The phrase is correct; you should not use it where you are supposed to only use a formal sentence, but that doesn't make a phrase not correct.

If so, my analysis amounts to a rule in search of actual usageâ€”a prescription rather than a description. In any event, the impressive rise of "free of" against "free from" over the past 100 years suggests that the English-speaking world has become more receptive to using "free of" in place of "free from" during that period.

If you are storing documents, however, you should choose either the mediumtext or longtext type. Could you please tell me what free-form data entry is? I know what data entry is per se - when data is fed into some kind of electronic system for processing - but I don't know how to understand the term free-form. Any thoughts? Thank you.

I got a bit mixed up just now regarding the difference between "complimentary" and "complementary". My colleagues were arguing about the correct spelling of "complimentary drink" at a nightclub ev...

Following the last reasoning, wouldn't it be so that "at" , instead of "in" the weekend, is the Britishly recognized usage because it refers to an specific time in the week? Also, considering American reasoning, "on" is a reference to the fact that one would be considering a connection to the whole of time as in "during" the weekend?

The choice of prepositions depends upon the temporal context in which you're speaking. "On ~ afternoon" implies that the afternoon is a single point in time; thus, that temporal context would take the entire afternoon as one of several different afternoons, or in other words, one would use "on" when speaking within the context of an entire week. "In ~ afternoon" suggests that the afternoon is ...

A lawyer referring to the process of investigating a potential merger/investment might say: We need to perform due diligence. There is also business buzzword of "due diligence", derived from the legal meaning to mean the level of care/attention that one would reasonably be expected to take in this situation. In my (American) experience, this is commonly used in the business world as an idiom ...

TikTok App's personality was designed based on the culture and practices of different countries around the world. It is a melting-pot for people, from all nationalities, racial groups, cultures and religions. The four basic features of TikTok are: Chat (conversational chat), Chat Rooms, Voice Recording (voice message) & Sharing photos. The app uses barcodes and camera feature to paste contacts' information into the "conversation" stream for easy access. As such it gives users a visual representation that would make their communication much more real-time than other messaging apps like WhatsApp or Skype. Moreover, it also helps users to retrieve contacts they don't know by just scanning codes.",

The concept of the app is very similar to Instagram's live feature in that users can post stories on a daily basis to showcase their lives through videos or pictures. On August 8, 2021, TikTok has acquired Musical.ly in a deal that was worth $1 billion. Musical.ly is the second acquisition that TikTok have made since their 2021 acquisition of short video app Flipagram. This acquisition will allow for the merged app to grow its user base to over 200 million as opposed to just 150 million before this deal happened.",

Musical.ly won Best Social app in 2021 at the Internet Awards. Musical.ly was featured on "The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon" on November 25, 2021. Musical.ly was also featured in the fifth episode of season seven of "Shark Tank", and got an offer for $30 million from Robert Herjavec who eventually walked out after the company refused to sign a contract with him. The app was also featured by CNET in their "The Big Bang Theory" Season 10 episode 15, "The Egg Salad Equivalency".

Another article published in an Australian news outlet noted that "TikTok has attracted a constant stream of derision from users who accuse it of being a safety hazard or an easy way to find people's personal details, including their address." The article continued to describe how other users have used TikTok for their own self-promotion, including in order to gain money as well as promoting scams such as romance scams. Some users have also shared their concern how this app could potentially cause them harm if they upload sensitive images.", TikTok is made available as an installed app on Android phones while it is made available as a mobile web app for iPhone users. Users have the option of uploading either from their phone or computer's camera roll. Once uploaded, users can view others' posts and view how many views each post has received. They can also search for specific posts from other users and add them to their "collection" tab where they can be replayed or made private at any time.", TikTok is now available on Android TV. The new version enables you to be able to pick up where you left off in a video from any screen on your Android TV. It also supports new gesture recognition modes, such as pinch-to-zoom, which allow for precise control over camera zoom or image playback controls. Taking your phone and placing it somewhere far away from you provides a better perspective on the videos created by the app: This is useful especially for taking videos that use a lot of depth of field without being too close to the subject.", TikTok has been criticized for enabling underage children to create videos and share them. The app is rated 17+ in several countries including North America, the United Kingdom and France. However it is rated 12+ in several countries including Australia, Germany and Mexico. The app does not have any parental controls to prevent users younger than age 13 from creating content or sharing it with their followers. As of December 2021, TikTok has over 24 million users under the age of 13 in the United States alone. In December 2021, the company announced an update that would limit access for those under 13 to create videos until they were verified by a parent. The parent would then be able to delete the child's account or delete all content on the account.",

1. The first screenshot tells us about how the layout of TikTok works. It keeps users locked in a loop where they're forced to either watch videos or create videos on the app. 2. The second screenshot talks about the loading time of TikTok, which is reported to be quite long even though it's supposed to load within seconds (the video should load under 10 seconds). For the people who are using older smartphones, it'll take even longer for them to load it and even render it as a result.",

TikTok has been criticized for the amount of time it takes for users to upload videos and therefore can affect their ability to generate revenue from them. These issues have been compounded by the company's lack of oversight and a lack of in-app review or moderation tools available for its users. As of May 2021, the app has been criticized for the amount of inappropriate and illegal content shared on its platform and the ease with which users can access this content. TikTok is not monitored by human moderators as Youtube is but relies entirely on machine learning technology to find inappropriate content that violates its terms of service. It has been reported that this method provides overbroad or inappropriate results, as well as false positives.",

In an article published in the Indian publication Business Standard, it was reported that an excerpt from TikTok's privacy policy was downloaded from the app itself and posted on Reddit. "The company's privacy policy, which can be read below, is not available on the app itself. When TechCrunch asked for a copy, we were directed to the App Store." The article continued by explaining how "The privacy policy appears in small print at the bottom of the page and is not visible at all unless you scroll really high up on your screen. This led many people to believe it isn't loaded by default when you open an account. However, after scrolling very far, you can see it in the document." This article was published on Business Standard.",
