In March 2021, the French government requested that TikTok be permanently banned from Apple's App store and Google Play because of its pornographic videos. The Minister of the Interior Christophe Castaner stated that: "the goal is to force them to make changes, notably by using age verification tools." • TikTok can be observed as a useful case for understanding the development of "internet culture". It could be said that while other popular social platforms like Twitter and Instagram are popular with users because of their features, it is precisely TikTok's rejection of such features that makes it so popular among young people. This is because they attribute the lack of these features to its ability to focus on the video clips themselves, and thus on the people they can "connect" with. For this reason, TikTok's success can also be attributed to it being an app driven by pure fun and entertainment.",

In another article published on The Guardian, TikTok was criticized for its lack of a privacy policy and transparency about how it uses users' data. "TikTok's chief marketing officer, Ed Wu, told Forbes the app has more than 200m monthly active users and that it is 'very transparent' about how it uses data for targeting advertising. However, he did not respond to questions about whether the app has a privacy policy and users were unable to find one in their apps because there isn't one. When asked about how long the company keeps users' data, Wu said in an emailed statement that it's 'subject to our internal policies and applicable law.'",

In February 2021, the app was reported to have signed a deal with Universal Music Group in order to launch a new feature called "Advertise" later that month. The app became the first musical platform in Asia to offer this service which allows users to purchase their own song for $2.99 USD, or sponsored content, with real money. However, it has been reported that TikTok was unable to sign up Universal Music as an artist on its platform to allow its artists and users in India to make money from it.",
