On December 19, 2021, TikTok introduced a feature called "Profile Verification" in India. The feature was made to allow users to verify their identity on the app by sending their government-issued identification card number to TikTok. The company announced that the feature would show up as an option in the parental control settings of people who had verified their identities. The feature was only available for people aged 18 and over and did not verify names or email addresses. In addition, the company said it would not use the information for any other purpose other than verifying age on the platform. In an interview with NDTV, Jigar Shah, CEO and founder of TikTok said that they had not created profiles in other countries and that verification was only meant to stop people from registering without giving any information. On August 2, 2021, TikTok stopped offering the feature stating "We have received feedback from a majority of our users who do not wish to share their ID card numbers. We will continue to develop other features that can match identities using information such as phone number or email address." The company said it would continue to consider adding the feature in the future with new technology.",

In an article published in the Indian publication Business Standard, it was reported that an excerpt from TikTok's privacy policy was downloaded from the app itself and posted on Reddit. "The company's privacy policy, which can be read below, is not available on the app itself. When TechCrunch asked for a copy, we were directed to the App Store." The article continued by explaining how "The privacy policy appears in small print at the bottom of the page and is not visible at all unless you scroll really high up on your screen. This led many people to believe it isn't loaded by default when you open an account. However, after scrolling very far, you can see it in the document." This article was published on Business Standard.",

The primary difference between Tencent's WeChat and ByteDance's Toutiao is that the former has yet to capitalize on the addictive nature of short-form videos, whereas the latter has. TikTok is the latter's new acquisition is a comparatively more simple app than its parent company, but it does fit in well with Tencent's previous acquisition of Meitu, which is perhaps better known for its beauty apps.",

To access the app's functions, users are required to have a smartphone and an internet connection in order to post videos. As with other social media platforms, the basic functions or features such as accessing information about a particular person or viewing people's latest posts are available to everyone while certain more advanced functions require a subscription or subscription membership to access.", TikTok is owned by the Chinese company ByteDance, which also owns the short video platform Musical.ly. Many people have noted the similarities between the two platforms, with some stating that TikTok is simply a clone of its older sibling. This sentiment has led some people to ask whether or not TikTok was simply a copycat app that was created in an attempt to gain success from Musical.ly's early popularity in China and elsewhere in Asia. Some have even gone as far as to suggest that Musical.ly was the app that inspired TikTok. The following is an image of the two apps side by side, which clearly highlights some of their similarities.",

In March 2021, the French government requested that TikTok be permanently banned from Apple's App store and Google Play because of its pornographic videos. The Minister of the Interior Christophe Castaner stated that: "the goal is to force them to make changes, notably by using age verification tools." • TikTok can be observed as a useful case for understanding the development of "internet culture". It could be said that while other popular social platforms like Twitter and Instagram are popular with users because of their features, it is precisely TikTok's rejection of such features that makes it so popular among young people. This is because they attribute the lack of these features to its ability to focus on the video clips themselves, and thus on the people they can "connect" with. For this reason, TikTok's success can also be attributed to it being an app driven by pure fun and entertainment.", Social media website Reddit users are known for posting TikTok videos on the forum. The real-time social video platform has gained popularity. It is mostly used as a replacement to YouTube. Users post videos from their phones or computers to the platform, where they can be viewed by other users and added to their own collections. Users can also post comments and GIFs in a similar fashion as "Reddit" does on its forum section. The platform has gained a reputation for having a lot of vulgar content, but it is generally regarded as more entertaining than the norm.", Musical.ly has been targeted by spyware developers who have attempted to take advantage of vulnerable accounts. In March 2021, "CNET" reported that the company had pulled PathMate, a tethering app which could be used to record and spy on users' mobile video activity; however it still remained on iTunes and Google Play Store after its removal from Musical.ly's website. In June 2021, mobile security firm Lookout released a report noting that spyware apps were disrupting IMEI access through compromised Musical.ly accounts. Lookout also found that spyware apps were being offered as Musical.ly "likes" or "cheats", with some marketing them as offering or allowing access to features that the app otherwise does not have. The report also noted that it was possible for users to be infected just by scrolling through the app's stories without clicking on anything, and users would often have no idea they had been compromised until a notification popped up telling them to install an update to their security software in order to remove malicious threats.",

The criticism of TikTok from a lot of users is not surprising because this platform has been accused of violating its users' privacy in the past. A news article published by a German news outlet noted that "TikTok is no longer just a fun app for teenagers, but rather an attack tool aimed at the private lives and personal data of young people. The American app is the latest in a series of digital platforms to become notorious for breaches of privacy." The article continued to state that "The cross-platform app just received 10 million at-risk accounts. But this data is second-hand, because Snapchat does not make clear whether the images that appear on its platform are real or not." One of the biggest concerns with TikTok is that it allows users to upload sensitive personal information such as videos which include images of people who may be minors. In addition, if a user's account gets hacked, there is no way for them to know if their account has been used against them in a manner which causes harm or embarrassment. In addition, the app does not make clear to its users which videos are older than 24 hours or indicate that their account has been hacked. A lot of people have also expressed concerns about the fact that they do not know what data is collected and what it is used for by the app and that their privacy could potentially be at risk if they do not understand how to use this app as well as what data is being collected from them.", TikTok was created by the Chinese company ByteDance Inc. The app is known as Douyin in China and TikTok around the world. TikTok is a musical.ly type app and has no relationship with musically unfortunately. This app may be a Musical.ly copycat, but it has tons of features that Musical.ly doesn't have such as live-streaming and a unique feature where it allows users to send their video to Instagram so it plays there on the newsfeed instead of just in your messages! The music that is played in most people's videos are from YouTube which is free for any artist or record label to use, unlike musical.ly. It is owned by ByteDance Inc which is a Chinese company located in Shanghai that has been around since 2011 and was bought by ByteDance LLC in 2018.",
